Corpus Linguistics

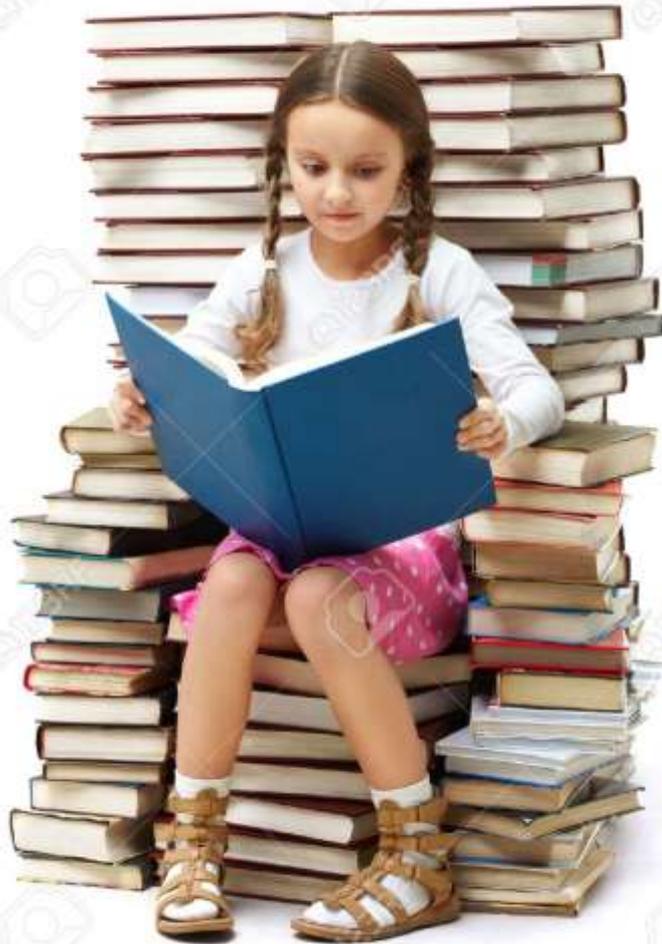

- How many words should you know from this sea of words?

Which of these words should you learn first before the others?

What is Corpus?

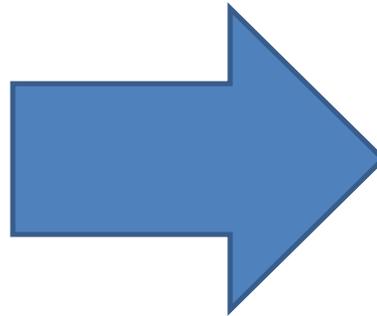

In Corpus Linguistics

Corpus:

large, principled collection of naturally occurring texts (written or spoken) stored electronically.

Corpora:

plural form of Corpus

Naturally occurring texts?

- Language that is from actual language situations, such as friends chatting, meetings, letters, class assignments, and books (rather than made-up language)

A principled collection?

- The texts in the corpus need to represent the type of language that the corpus is intending to capture

How big is “large”?

- Relative
- In 1960 The Brown Corpus : 1 million words
- BNC : 100 million words
- COCA: 400 million words
- 1-million-words general corpus

Corpus Linguistics

A way of investigating language by observing large amounts of naturally-occurring, electronically-stored discourse, using software which selects, sorts, matches, counts and calculates".

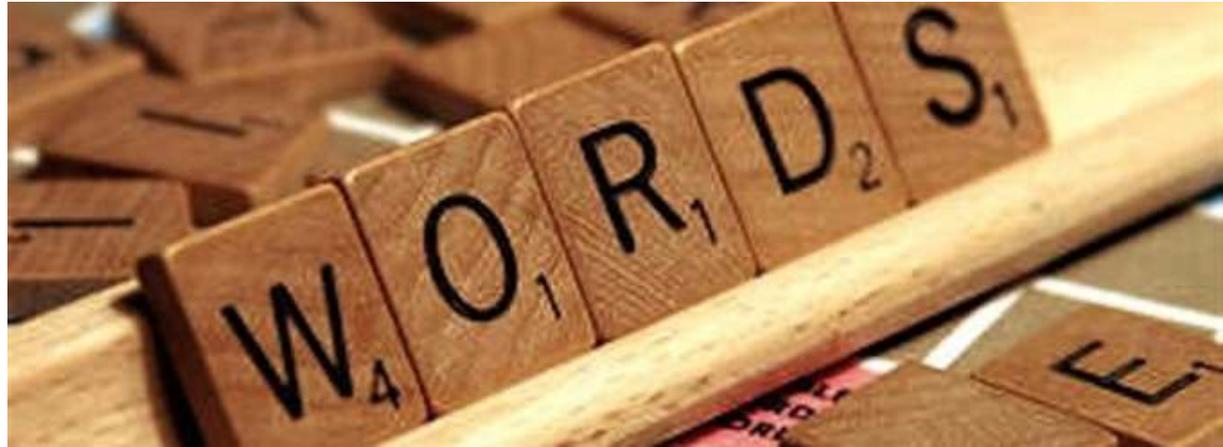

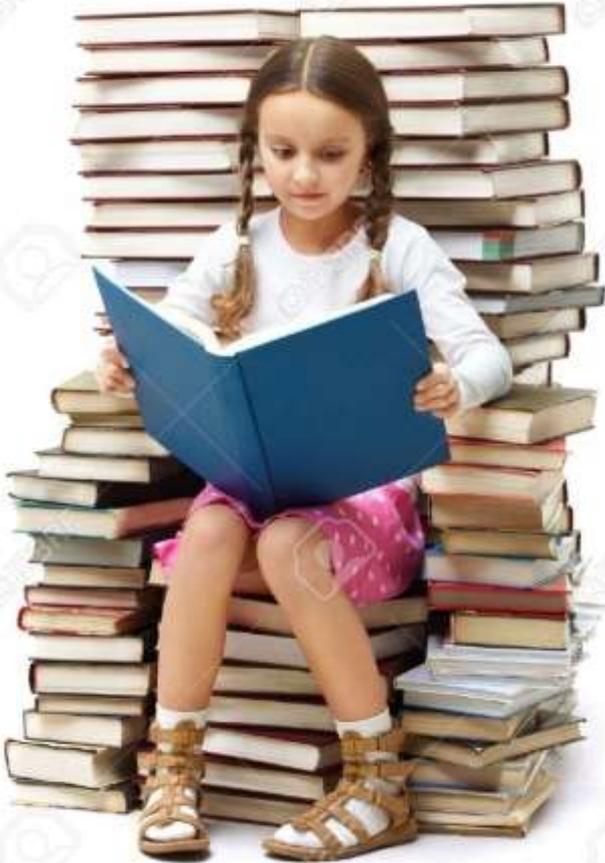

(Hunston, Susan and Gill Francis, 2000).

Why is corpus linguistics important?

- to see how language is used,
- To see how that language is used in different contexts,
- to learn/teach language more effectively.

Why use corpora in the English classroom?

What are some ways to use a corpus in the English classroom?

Which words language learner should learn first before the others?

- A native speaker with university graduate will have a vocabulary of around 20,000 word families (Paul Nation and Waring, 1997)
- A vocabulary size of 2000 to 3000 words provides a very good basis for language use (Paul Nation and Waring, 1997)

- The 2,000 most frequent words are fundamental for any language use (Nation, 1990).
- Knowledge of the 2,000 most frequent word families enables L2 readers to recognize 84% of the words in various types of authentic texts (Hwang, K., & Nation, I. S. P. ,1995)

Corpus-Based Approach

- Corpus-based approach is empirical, analyzing the actual patterns of use from natural texts. It utilizes a large and principled collection of natural texts as the basis for analysis.
- It makes extensive use of computers for analysis, using both automatic and interactive techniques.
- It integrates both quantitative and qualitative analytical techniques

BNC

- The British National Corpus \(BNC\)
- Oxford University press
- in the 1980s - early 1990s,
- 100 million words of text texts from a wide range of genres
- (e.g. spoken, fiction, magazines, newspapers, and academic).
- The BNC/COCA headword lists contain the headwords from the 25,000 BNC/COCA word families that come with the Range program.

Word Lists
One	Represents the 1 st 1000 most frequent words in English
Two	Represents the 2 nd 1000 most frequent words in English
Three	Includes words that are not found in the first 2,000 words but are frequent in secondary school and university texts. These lists are based on Michael West's General Service List (1953) and on Coxhead's Academic Word List (1998).
Not in the list	The words which are not included in the three lists. This list may include less frequent than 14,000-word level, proper nouns, acronyms, abbreviations, alternative spelling, letters with numbers, exclamations, errors and non-English words.
